This generation of Corolla was larger, heavier, and visually more aerodynamic than the model it replaced. With its 2465 mm 97 in wheelbase, the Corolla had moved into the compact size class once occupied by the Corona and Camry. The Corolla again had an equivalent model Sprinter, with the Sprinter Trueno being equivalent to the Corolla Levin and both exclusive to Toyota Vista Store Japanese dealerships. Also returning in this generation was the twodoor coupe Corolla Levin. A 4WD variant of the sedan and station wagon was also available with a 1.6 liter petrol or 2.0 liter diesel engine. Minor facelift changes were introduced in May 1993. These included a new grille, a reconfiguration of the rear lamps and various other bits of trim and garnish. Business Wagons typically had slightly higher equipment levels than simpler vans. The Corolla Touring Wagon continued until 2000, while both commercial versions continued to serve the Japanese market until July 2002, long outliving the mainstream E110 models in Japan. It was succeeded by the Probox. These cars were based on the GT sedan and converted to replicate the 1994 Corolla JTCC race car specifications. The engine was swapped to a naturally aspirated 2.0 L 3SGE with 132 kW 178 hp; 180 PS, new 5speed S54 manual gearbox, heavy duty clutch, mechanical LSD, quickshifter, 15inch TRD TypeFT wheels with Yokohama Grandprix M5 tires, TRD brakes, new suspension 20 mm lower, small spoiler on the trunk, stainless steel dual exhaust, Konig Prinz P200 bucket seats, TRD steering wheel and only available in white. <http://tavio.ru/files/finepix-ax655-manual.xml>

The following list is not complete or inclusive. The top model was offered in both manual and automatic transmissions. Other pioneer features that followed were rear seatbelts, front cup holders late 1994 and a driver's airbag late 1995. ABS followed during its later years. Initially the trim levels were 1.3 SE and 1.6 SEG. The smaller engine model was replaced by a 1.6 SE in 1994. Toyota Corolla DX sedan AE102 USA Toyota Corolla DX Wagon AE102 United States The base model came with the 1.6 liter 4AFE engine. The DX, LE and wagon came with the 1.8 liter 7AFE. The 1993 and 1994 versions of the 7AFE engine were rated at 86 kW 115 hp, later versions were rated at 78 kW 105 hp mainly due to differences of the intake shape. The Base model and later the CE came with restyled gray plastic trunk garnish. Sporty Corollas and 4WD Corollas were no longer imported during this generation. Some 1993 Corolla sedans sold were also produced in Japan, due to factory delays. All of the wagons were produced at the Takaoka plant in Japan. All models received additional side-impact protection to meet new federal standards. And for the first time, during 1997, all the Corollas sold in the United States were built in North America at the NUMMI plant in Fremont, California and the TMMC plant in Canada. By the end of the 1997 model year, the Corolla had become the bestselling nameplate in automotive history, overtaking the VW Beetle. They featured a higher trim than most of its rivals at the time, since they all came with standard driver side airbag, larger bumpers, polycarbonate headlamp lenses, thus they had a higher price tag than their rivals. For the 1994 model year and later, lower trim models were sold instead to match rivals prices. The three and five door Corolla hatchback was also sold in Europe, where it took the lion's share of Corolla sales. <https://gites-morbihan-sud.com/userfiles/finepix-c20-manual.xml>

Japan, although some mildly hot models were also marketed. Although basically the trim levels are Base, XLi and GLi, there was also the GS. It also had an upgraded interior with white dials and a rev counter. In the UK, the Corolla was marketed as S, CD and CDX. A few select, rare models featured the 1.8L 7AFE engine, including the 1.8 GXi 3door hatchback in the UK, and the 1.8 XLi 4WD estate in certain markets. The sedan has its rear license plate mounted on the trunklid as opposed to the bumper on other region models. These vehicles were assembled at Toyotas Thames factory. The entire Corolla range now received power steering as standard equipment. This model came in hatchback Seca and sedan variants. The trim levels consisted of 1.6L CSi base model, 1.6L and 1.8L CSX, 1.8L Conquest, sporty 1.8L RV hatchback only and the top of the range 1.8L Ultima sedan only. Special edition models were included in the model lineup, and between 1994 and 1996 Toyota also imported the fivedoor liftback Sprinter model. In 1999, production of the E100 Corolla in Australia was terminated and Toyota Australia returned to Japanese imports, this time model AE112R. Retrieved 11 July 2014.
